Homicide investigators are still without motive or suspects in the shooting death of a 25-year-old man who hoped to become an Oakland police officer.

Alejandro Freyre, 25, was gunned down Saturday night outside his apartment in the 3000 block of Adeline Street.

Sgt. Mike Sitterud said that last Friday, the day before Freyre was killed, Freyre had just passed the oral examination portion of the police applicant procedure.

Freyre had lived at the apartment since last August.

An ex-convict has been charged with the murder of a 25-year-old man who wanted to be an Oakland police officer.

Homicide investigators said the Alejandro Freyre was shot March 7 with his own gun, which was stolen moments earlier.

James. M. Fullmore, 29, was arrested at a friend's home Tuesday by Sgts. Mike Sitterud and Gerry Medsker. He is charged with murdering Freyre, who was shot through the heart outside his apartment in the 3000 block of Adeline Street.

Freyre had been working as a truck driver at the Alameda Naval Air Station and as a security guard.

Sitterud said Freyre had passed the oral portion of an examination to become an Oakland policeman the day before he was shot.

On the night Freyre was killed he was on his way to work as a security guard and was wearing his uniform. He had left his gun in its holster on the floor of his van.

Sitterud said police developed Fullmore as a possible suspect after residents of Freyre's building told them he had been in the area that day.

Fullmore was paroled from state prison in September of 1980 after serving 19 months for receiving stolen property.
